

BIOGRAPHY

Judy Goldberg

Judy Goldberg is Director, Learning & Development, International focused on bringing learning and growth opportunities for Discovery employees around the globe. Judy joined Discovery Communications Learning & Development team in 2003 in Silver Spring, MD serving as a key architect for the design and implementation of the company's learning and development strategy. In October 2007, she relocated to London for new experiences and a global perspective over the pond.

With a focus on engaging teams across the globe in designing growth opportunities, Judy is keen to craft development paths with business partners, to facilitate change and to reinforce the mindset of transformation and the learning journey.

With a passion for the creative, Judy aims to present an innovative edge to find solutions and to introduce content in new and unique ways for a diverse population of learners.

Judy has years of experience in facilitation, marketing, communication, team development and management in the business, education, and non-profit sectors. She served as Communications Director and Advisory Council member for the Alliance for Workplace Excellence in Maryland and advised the leadership team on best practices, website design and strategy development.

Previous to her position at Discovery, Judy sailed the high seas as one of the first Training & Development Officers for Royal Caribbean Cruise Lines. Before shifting to the corporate world, she taught in the public and private sectors in Maryland and Costa Rica.